1ST GRADE WEEKLY UPDATE

Week Fourteen

I hope you all had a blessed Thanksgiving! It was nice to be back together on Monday and hear about the highlights of trips and long weekends with the holiday. We had a pretty normal week this week. The students enjoyed having a parent reader on Friday afternoon and playing outside with their friends, even if it was a bit colder this week. I included a picture of the student timeline display because they are so neat to look at each day. What a special group of kids!

Next week, we will begin our short Advent season. In our classroom, we will have a Jesse Tree and an Advent calendar activity each day as we prepare for Christmas.

Reminders

Trimester one report cards will be available for you to view on Educate tomorrow morning. Please sign and return the form that was sent home today to acknowledge that you were able to review your child's report card.

The prayer we will be focusing on this month is the Hail Mary. Please practice this prayer with your child at home. During this Advent season of preparation, we prepare our hearts like Mary to receive the gift of Jesus at Christmas.

Notes from the Week

Reading

Students learned about using the suffix -s to make words plural this week. We mark this concept in words by circling the s. They read a fantasy story about friendship and identified characters, setting, and plot (beginning, middle, and end) in the story.

Math

Students continue to practice math facts each day to build automaticity and accuracy. We began our chapter on shapes by learning about two-dimensional shapes.

Religion

Students learned about Christ the King and Advent this week as we end the Church year and begin the season of Advent on Sunday. We talked about preparing our hearts for Jesus and how it was such a miraculous and wonderful thing for Christ to be born and live among us.

Science/Social Studies

We learned about changes from long ago to today this week in social studies. Next week, we will learn about the planets and make a project with our fourth grade buddies.
